Tell me about route 501 and 504

Ask

The 501 Queen streetcar travels along Queen Street from Long Branch in the west to Neville Park in the east. It is one of the longest streetcar routes in Toronto and passes through neighbourhoods such as Parkdale, Queen West, and Leslieville, providing access to shops, parks, and cultural destinations.

The 504 King streetcar is one of Toronto's busiest surface routes, running along King Street and connecting Liberty Village, downtown Toronto, and the Distillery District. Much of its route operates in a transit-priority corridor, which helps reduce delays and improve travel times. It is heavily used by commuters and residents in the downtown core.

What is PRESTO rules and fares

Ask Assistant

PRESTO is the primary fare payment system used on the TTC, where riders tap their card or mobile wallet to pay the fare. The system automatically deducts the correct fare and supports transfers within a set time window. The TTC uses a flat-fare system, meaning riders pay the same amount regardless of distance traveled. Discounts are available for seniors, students, and children. Monthly passes and daily fare caps provide additional savings for frequent riders.
